

Truman Asks 350 Million

For Relief Aid to People of Liberated Countries Abroad, on Humanitarian Basis

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—President Truman asked congress today to vote $350,000,000 for relief aid to people of liberated countries abroad.

In a message to the legislators, the president noted that full scale supply operations by UNRRA are rapidly drawing to a close, and said:

"On humanitarian grounds, and in the light of our own self-interest as well, we must not leave the task unfinished. We can not abandon the people still in need."

UNRRA—the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration—is scheduled to wind up its operations March 31, although winding up activities underway will continue beyond that date.

Mr. Truman's recommendation was only for liberated countries. United States relief activities in occupied countries, such as Germany and Austria, are financed by the war department from its appropriations.

No Hoover Report Yet

(White House aides said that former president Herbert Hoover has not yet reported to Mr. Truman on his investigation looking to long term plans for rehabilitation of occupied areas.)

There have been complaints in congress about UNRRA's administration methods. Some legislators contend its services have been used to support governments uncooperative with the United States.

The president made no reference to this, but recommended that future United States relief assistance be given directly rather than through an international organization, and "be administered under United States control."

Mr. Truman said the money he asks is designed "for the urgent relief needs for the balance of the year." He added:

"The most critical period will be in the spring and summer months, when UNRRA shipments will cease and their harvests are not yet available.

"Swift legislative action is necessary if our help is not to come too late."

No Specific Nations

While the aid was asked for "liberated" countries suffering from the "ravages of war," Mr. Truman did not mention any specific nations.

The president said that in some liberated countries, UNRRA will have achieved its objective fully when UNRRA's supply operations cease. He explained that means they will be again "self supporting so far as the basic essentials of life are concerned."

But in other liberated countries, Mr. Truman said this is not yet the case and what remains to be done, while relatively small and limited in time and scope, is "none-the-less vitally important."

To leave the task unfinished, he said, would be to "replace hope with despair in the hearts of these peoples and thus to undermine the spiritual and economic stability upon which our own hopes for a better world must rest."

Couple Fail to Furnish Bond

NEOSHO, Mo., Feb. 21.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Humbarger, whose love for a 14-month-old baby they sought to make their own brought them to grief, went to jail today in default of $5,000 bond each on kidnapping charges to await preliminary hearing on February 25.

Returned here last night from Toledo, Ohio, the Humbargers spent the night in jail while the baby, Donald Robert Waltham, was re-united with his two brothers and sister at the home of their mother, Mrs. Virginia Waltham, 26, divorced waitress.

Arraigned today before Magistrate A. R. Dunn, the Humbargers pleaded innocent to the kidnapping charges and failed to furnish bonds. Judge Dunn said they were apparently without funds to employ counsel and he appointed Herbert Douglas, Neosho lawyer, to defend them at their forthcoming hearing.

Harry K. Thaw is Critically Ill

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21.—(AP)—Harry K. Thaw, multimillionaire whose romances and escapades of nearly half a century ago precipitated the shooting of Stanford White, was reported to be critically ill at his home here today.

Thaw's household reported that a prominent Miami physician was at his bedside "and cannot be called away." The doctor's office declined to make a statement of the 76-year-old Thaw's condition.

Snowstorm in East, Report 31 Are Dead

Closing Schools, Snarling Traffic, Slowing Business

By the Associated Press

Freezing winds blasted the east today (Friday) as the heaviest snowstorm of recent years moved seaward, leaving in its wake at least 31 persons dead, highways snowbound, schools closed and industry impaired.

The deepest snowfall in the east, 27 inches, was reported in Dickinson county, Virginia.

Over exertion in shoveling snow and traffic accidents were the chief causes of death.

Deaths by states were New Jersey, 11; Pennsylvania, 9; Connecticut, 4; New York, 2; District of Columbia, 1; Illinois, 2.

Schools closed in 28 Virginia counties.

Cold Follows Snow
While the full weight of snow hit the eastern seaboard states, extreme cold followed on its heels over the Great Lakes and middle west. The temperature registered 21 degrees below zero at Bemidji, Minn., and below zero weather extended over Minnesota and North Dakota.

In New York City 11 inches of snow had fallen by 10:42 a.m. (EST) and the weather bureau forecast the temperature would go to 10 degrees tonight.

Sessions Postponed

Sessions of the United Nations at Lake Success, N. Y., were postponed today as the snow disrupted communications. It was the first time the U.N. postponed a security council meeting.

Snow, whipped by strong winds, continued to fall through the morning in most sections, drifting across highways and railroads which were heavily blanketed during the night.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Even the stork had to fight his way through Philadelphia's 10-inch snowstorm today.

Police cars and emergency trucks succeeded in getting 25 momentarily expectant mothers to hospitals.

The storm extended from Maine into North Carolina, but hope of abatement for the middle Atlantic states came with reports that the storm was reduced to flurries in Western Pennsylvania.

A task force of 8,000 workers struggled to clear New York streets, working in 35-mile-hour winds that whipped among the skyscrapers.

Found in Woods
The experience of those who wandered outside was dramatically highlighted in Nottingham, N. H., where two boys, three and four years old, were found asleep last night in deep woods by 250 frantic searchers, after they had wandered from their homes.

In New England the storm gained in fury during the night, locking highways in drifts that brought out all road-clearing machines.

'Blackie' Came Home Too Late

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—(AP)—"Blackie," a black mongrel puppy, returned home today to a household gripped by grief over the suicide of 13-year-old Joey Craig, who hanged himself because he feared his pet had run away for good.

A few hours later a coroner's jury decided Joey had taken his life while despondent over the loss of the first dog he ever owned, a present given him last Christmas.

Joey and "Blackie" were inseparable companions. The boy never went to play in the crowded stockyards district without taking "Blackie." The dog always waited for his young master outside school. Many nights Joey let "Blackie" sleep with him.

Yes, today the dog was missing.

BULLETIN

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Feb. 21.—(AP)—A federal court jury late today acquitted seven Leavenworth men, among them Police Chief Roy W. Murray, of a charge of conspiring to violate liquor laws.

He's Unknown, But He Pays His Income Taxes

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—(AP)—The Internal Revenue office reports that business improved in 1946 for Mr. "ZYWX," a mysterious taxpayer.

Collector Nigel D. Campbell said that department had received $1,000 from a person who signed his name "ZYWX." Earlier he had written the collector that he was to make tax payments of $1,700, and it would be sent in four separate envelopes.

"ZYWX" is not a newcomer at the tax office. He has been sending in payments for the last seven years, with only the initials on a blank income tax form as a mark of identification. His first contribution was $300. Last year he sent in $700.

"It may be someone who is in an illegal business," Campbell said. "Whoever he is, his conscience is bothering him."

Large Crowd At Conference

The twenty-third annual Pettis County Clover and Prosperity Conference and luncheon is being held today with approximately 130 in attendance. About thirty of the group are Sedalians.

The morning session was held at the Pettis county courthouse, with J. A. Harvey, chairman of the county Triple A committee, speaking on the 1947 agriculture conservation program. Several other speakers will follow.

At noon the group adjourned for luncheon to the first M. E. church, where the remainder of the program is being given this afternoon, with D. S. Lamm to give a talk on "The Business Man's Stake in Balanced Farming."

Snow Caused Truman To Forego Walk

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—The weather and absenteeism bailed up President Truman's routine today.

Snow piled high on Washington streets caused Mr. Truman to forego his customary before-breakfast walk. Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said the chief executive was up at 6 a. m., as usual, but read the newspapers and began work on state business.

Absence from the city of six of ten cabinet members brought cancellation of the regular Friday cabinet meeting.

Mumps at Eighty EMPORIA, Kas., Feb. 21.—(AP)—It's never too late, says Mrs. Eva Jones, a mumps victim at the age of 80.

Lyon county health officials said she was the oldest mumps case ever reported to them.

Suggest $500 As Top Bonus For Veterans

Recommendation Made by Minority Democrats in House

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 21.—(AP)—A maximum veterans' bonus of $500 to be financed by stiff new excise taxes was recommended today by minority Democrats in the Missouri house of representatives.

A special committee directed to study the bonus problem for the Democrats told a party caucus it thought the general assembly had ample power to enact such a program without submitting a constitutional amendment to the voters.

The bonus would be paid either in cash or in interest bearing certificates of indebtedness which would mature in ten years and would be tax exempt.

Each month of wartime service in the United States would entitle a veteran to $10 or a maximum of $400. For overseas service the bonus rate would be $15 a month, with a top of $500.

Estimated Cost
Rep. C. P. Turley (D) of Carter county, chairman of the special committee which drafted the recommendations, estimated the plan would cost about $18,000,000.

To finance it, the Democrats outlined a system of nine new or increased taxes, including:

A tax of $10 per year upon all coin operated amusement devices.

A tax of two cents per package on cigarettes and a 10 per cent tax on cigars and all other tobacco products estimated to produce $2,000,000.

A 10 per cent tax upon luxury items, such as jewelry, luggage, furs, toilet articles, etc., estimated to produce $3,500,000.

A tax of 10 cents per case on soft drinks and 25 cents per gallon on fountain syrup; an additional tax of 62 cents per barrel on all beer, and additional tax of 80 cents per gallon on liquor, an additional tax of 10 cents per gallon on fortified wines and two cents per gallon on light wines estimated to produce $8,000,000.

A tax of 10 per cent on billboard advertising.

A tax of 10 per cent on admission or service charges in dancing halls and night clubs.

A tax of one per cent on the sale price of new automobiles and trucks.

A tax of five per cent on all admissions to theaters, circuses and shows.

A tax of $2.50 on each pool and billiard table, $10 for each alley in every bowling alley establishment.

Inquiry Into Milk Prices

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Feb. 21.—(AP)—The examination of witnesses by Attorney General J. E. Taylor and two assistants as part of an investigation of Greene county milk prices will continue here today.

Taylor said the investigation has been under way for several weeks to determine whether the Greene County Milk Producers Association and the bottlers conspired to fix and maintain milk prices, but examination of witnesses began only yesterday. He added results so far obtained "lead me to believe a conspiracy exists," and possibly state anti-trust laws have been violated.

Retail grocers here have met several times with producers and bottlers to persuade them to reduce the retail price from 19 cents a quart.

May Reinstate Insurance
WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—President Truman today signed legislation continuing for World War 2 veterans the right to reinstate their government insurance policies.

The reinstatement period under previous law expired two weeks ago.

Liken Blast to Earthquake, Atom Bomb, End of World

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—(AP)—To survivors of the O'Connor Electrolap plant explosion, the blast felt like an earthquake, an atom bomb and even the end of the world. Reporters, milling about the leveled structure, found varied reactions and much drama.

Alice Lopez, 19, was working in a garment factory across the street. "It felt like something hit me," she said. "But there was no panic. Only one woman got excited. She yelled 'It's the end of the world.'"

Norman Scott, 21, navy veteran and one of the first to join in the rescue: "Hands and feet were sticking out of piles of brick and all around. Many victims were colored green, from acid it looked like."

Mrs. Olive Wafer, 72, home from a hospital only a few hours, and "I thought the end of the world had come." She was back in a hospital.

Likened it to Atom Blast
Eldo Krutz, working in another nearby plant, said it felt "just like an atomic bomb." Hundreds of persons said the rumble and roar was reminiscent of the 1933 earthquake.

One woman emerged from her house, blood running over her eyes. "I'm all right, but how is my little bird?" she asked. She carried a cage, a canary fluttering weakly inside.

An unidentified woman dug frantically beneath cracked timbers, calling frantically for her dog. Finally she dragged him out, his eye cut, but his tail wagging tiredly.

"It was worse than any bomb I ever felt," observed Russell E. Nicholson, a Seabee veteran of the Pacific campaign working nearby.

Husband Blown Away
A hysterical woman pointed to a wrecked automobile, sobbed: "My husband was sitting there a minute ago. He was blown away."

Officers found Mrs. Refugio Aragon standing dazedly amid what was left of her home. "My groceries, what happened to my groceries?" she cried.

Oddest casualty was Charles Batye, 20, hurt 10 hours after the blast. He turned on a machine at a creamery last night, suffered a cut eye when a piece of glass broken in the explosion struck him.

Probing Beneath Debris

Search for Bodies After Chemical Explosion in Los Angeles, Deaths at 15

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—(AP)—After a night spent probing beneath glaring searchlights, police today fixed the death toll from the city's worst explosion in 37 years at 15. Of the 153 injured sufficiently to require hospitalization, several were feared dying.

The scene, as police and firemen shifted the blasted rubble of an electrolap plant, resembled somewhat a grisly-lit nightmare movie set. Except that there was nothing fictional about the carnage.

The one-story brick plant of the J. J. O'Connor Corp., at 932 East Pico Blvd., a mile from the center of downtown Los Angeles, blew apart in a blinding flash of chemicals at 9:45 a. m. (PST) yesterday. But it was hours before a clear picture of the disaster could be pieced together.

Police and fire officials finally agreed that it was caused by the detonation of perchloric acid, an extremely unstable substance kept under pressure in refrigeration because at room temperature it is a seething, heavy liquid. But how the acid was set off remained a mystery.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Note to the superstitious: Pico Boulevard, where yesterday's blast occurred, lies between 12th and 14th streets. Were it numbered as are most east-west streets, it would be 13th.

O'Connor told reporters, "we were doing something for the government." This, he later amplified, was the aluminum-plating of hospital beds and chairs under a secret trade process. Not in the plant at the time, he was reported in collapse at his home last night.

Most of the victims of the city's worst blast since the Los Angeles Times dynamiting killed 20 men in 1910 were in the plant or adjacent heavily damaged buildings, although a 10-year-old Negro riding his bicycle several blocks away died under a plummeting piece of metal.

Four Houses Wrecked
Four houses were almost complete wrecks, windows were broken in 300 within a mile's radius, glass shattered as far distant as 70 blocks, the entire downtown district was jolted as if by earthquake, sending terrorized citizens to telephones, quickly jamming police and newspaper lines.

Twelve fire companies battled the resultant blaze and a dozen spot fires started by flaming debris in the neighborhood.

A towering cloud of smoke, which many witnesses likened to that in newsreels of the Bikini atom bomb blast, mushroomed up, hanging over the area for minutes.

Hundreds of curious throngs into the area, hampering fire and rescue operations and doing some looting, but were finally cleared out by emergency police squads.

Graphic Description
A graphic description came from Dewayne Bearss, 22, of South Gate, a salesman, who with his father, Frank, was in the front office on business:

"One minute we were sitting in an orderly office. The next minute there wasn't any office. I was thrown to the floor. I didn't know what happened to dad. I heard him groaning on the other side of a section of roof that crashed between us. I was lucky. All the wreckage around me was light. I was able to dig myself out."

The elder Bearss, 44, was dead when rescuers reached him.

Struck by Hit Run Driver, Dies

Mayo Wheeler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Wheeler, of Beaman, who was injured by a hit and run driver Saturday night in the 100 block on Jefferson street, this city, died at 3:40 o'clock this morning at the Veterans hospital in Wadsworth, Kas.

Surviving besides his parents are two sisters, Mrs. Beulah Walker, White Church, Kas., and Mrs. Mildred Bridgewater, Sedalia, and one brother, Thomas Wheeler, Sedalia.

The body will be brought to the Ferguson funeral home. Funeral arrangements are not completed.

When the Dodgers reached Cuba, they found they were required to

No Worries

Ribs Baysinger, Syracuse Univ.
football coach whose son, Reeves, Jr., quarterbacked the Navy team against Army last fall, insists he wasn't the traditional perturbed parent during that exciting game.
Ribs explains after sitting on the bench throughout Navy's earlier game against Columbia the youngster was called upon for an explanation. . . . "I haven't shown them anything yet," he replied. "When I do I'll get my chance. . . . After the first few plays against Army," Pop adds.
"I saw the boy still had his feet on the ground so I sat back and enjoyed the game."

Shorts and Shells

According to Dan Ferris' reckoning, Harrison Dillard has the best chance to break a record in tomorrow's indoor AAU track championships, since he already has equalled the world record for 60 yard high hurdles and is faster over the lows. . . . The National downhill and slalom ski races at Alta and Snow Basin, Utah, next week, will be timed with five super-accurate stop-watches that cost $2,500 apiece to make and are only rented for such occasions.

Information On 'Vet' Bonds

Terminal Leave bonds may be used as payment of premiums on all forms of government insurance policies, but otherwise are non-negotiable and non-transfer-able. W. F. Fidler, of the Veterans' Administration office here said today.

Fidler reported that many World War II veterans were under the impression that terminal leave bonds could be used to pay off a loan. Terminal leave bonds may be applied on an indebtedness secured against a government insurance policy prior to July 31, 1946, but that this privilege is not extended to any other types of loans.

An increasing number of veterans are applying their terminal leave bonds as future premiums on their National Service Life Insurance. He pointed out that while bonds earn a 2 1/2 per cent interest, payments made in advance on government insurance normally earn a 3 per cent discount.

The Daily Washington Merry-go-Round
WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—During the 1936 Republican convention in Cleveland, GOP bigwig Senator Arthur Vandenberg to be Alf Landon's vice presidential running mate.
One man who especially wanted Vandenberg to take 2nd place on the ticket was the Chicago Tribune's Colonel Bertie McCormick. He figured that the combination of the Kansas governor and the Michigan senator would beat even Roosevelt. Vandenberg, however, remained adamant.
McCormick's pressure on Vandenberg had been brought entirely through second parties. So when they failed, he went in to see the senator himself.
"Colonel," replied Vandenberg, after the Chicago publisher had exhausted all his arguments on why the GOP needed him as a vice president, "let me ask you just one question. Would you like to be vice president of anything?"
"No," confessed McCormick. "Well, I wouldn't, either."
That ended the argument. Vandenberg did not run for vice president in 1936, and it was common gossip that he was waiting for the top billing later—the chance to run for president. Whether this was true or false, some paradoxical things have happened since that evening in Cleveland eleven years ago.
History in Reverse
First, Colonel McCormick, who so ardently admired Vandenberg before, now is his most vigorous critic. Relentlessly he carps at the Michigan senator for deserting his old isolationism and for now helping the state department keep the world on an even keel.
Second, Vandenberg probably could have the long-coveted presidential nomination in 1948, but seems to be genuinely sincere in stating that he doesn't want it.
Talking to a friend the other day, Van said:
"I can't help remembering what General Marshall told us during the war—that he was constantly afraid his generals would get burnt out. They don't know they're burnt out, he explained, but the constant strain of war eventually catches up with them and they lose their driving power."
"That's the way I feel today—I've been going at the same clip ever since Pearl Harbor. And the end of the war only made things worse, for then came the London conference and the Paris conference and finally the United Nations meeting in New York. So I am tired. Besides, by 1948 I'll be too old."
Vandenberg is 64 now, but looks considerably younger. In fact, he looks as if he thrived on work.
Regardless of whether the senior senator from Michigan could or would be president, his colleagues pay tribute to the fact that he has grown with the years. He is more tolerant, more understanding, more broad-minded, and has a keen insight into the world of international affairs. Unquestionably Arthur Vandenberg today is the most respected men of the nation were caught up in this hysteria. Among those who spoke against the nominees was a former Republican president of the United States. Others, however, including the very conservative president of Harvard university, were moved to come to the support of the Boston lawyer. After many months of senate wrangling, he was finally confirmed.
In time, the wisdom of the appointment became apparent to all. In his new supreme court position, the Boston lawyer contributed as much as any man of his day to the development of political thought and social progress.
Taft Apologizes
One rainy, misty evening, the supreme court justice was taking a brisk walk before dinner, and, hurrying back to his home, bumped into a large and portly gentleman, also in a hurry. Before he could say anything, the portly gentleman held out his hand and said:
"Isn't this Mr. Justice Brandeis? I am Mr. Taft. I once did you a great injustice, Mr. Brandeis. I am sorry."
"Thank you, Mr. Taft."
"Good night, Mr. Brandeis."
"Good night, Mr. Taft."
The supreme court nominee, of course, was Louis Brandeis, and the son of the former president who later realized his mistake, is now helping inspire the senate fight against the Brandeis of today—David Lillenthal.

C. W. Jung Is Lions' Speaker
Talk Given On
"Education" On Family Night
"Betterment of Education in Missouri" was the topic used by Chris W. Jung, principal of the Warrensburg high school, who spoke to the "family night" meeting of the Sedalia Lions Club, Thursday night at the Bothwell hotel.
Mr. Jung in his talk stressed the importance of education and consolidation of the rural schools to the benefit of all country school children. He told of the comparison of taxes paid by the tax payers in Sedalia, Warrensburg, and other cities to that of the school taxation of the rural tax payer. In this comparison he used Warrensburg as a basis, where $1.40 per hundred is paid into the schools while in a rural district which is next to Warrensburg the taxation is but twenty-cents.
He also brought into comparison of the rural school attendance, stating that sixty-eight percent of the rural schools have 15 or more pupils, seventeen percent have between 10 and fifteen; thirteen percent between 5 and 10 and two percent have but one student. In this figure he showed where in some schools it took but $51 per pupil to educate per year, $100 per pupil in others and in some as much as $501, per pupil.
Suggests Consolidation
Mr. Jung stated he was highly in favor of a more uniform distribution of school funds. Consolidated districts where more teachers could be employed for better advantages to the pupils. In widely scattered schools like is the case in rural sections, many teachers are not actually qualified to teach, meaning by this that hardly any subject, inasmuch as teaching is a specialty and teachers teach certain subjects to a much better advantage rather than trying to give a general course.
No high school can be a success and give everything that a student is entitled to where there are less than 100 students, this being the case due to the lack of teachers in those schools.
"Rural schools should be consolidated," he said, and continued by saying, there has been a consolidation, but they should be more so consolidated to build a larger central school, and thus give students a greater advantage for education. Clearing of the rural school system situation is being done slowly. A bill which will be presented or has been presented to the state legislature will take care of this problem if adopted by the law makers. The rapid means of transportation makes it possible for these consolidations," he said.
Mr. Jung also spoke on the financial problem of teachers, of their being underpaid, saying "maybe the people do not think so, but we teachers feel that we are. Consolidation, making it possible for better teachers to be employed in fewer schools, will make it possible to give the teachers a better living wage."
B. A. Ricard, a member of Lions in Warrensburg, also a guest of the club.
The Sedalia Lions club had as their guests at the meeting their wives, all enjoying a turkey dinner.
Following the meeting games participated in by the members and guests.

Forty Years Ago
At the twenty-fourth anniversary of the founding of Central Business college at the Sedalia theatre a musical program was presented and a lecture given by the Rev. J. S. Myers.
A sneak thief stole $51.75 from the cash drawer in the box office of Wood's Opera house between 6 and 7 o'clock last night. The added sum of $70 was overlooked and the thief in leaving dropped a five dollar bill.
A brilliant reception was given Thursday evening by the Sedalia lodge No. 125, B. P. O. Elks to the Ladies Musical club as a testimonial of the lodge's appreciation of the recent benefit entertainment by the music club. Mrs. W. D. Steele, president of the music club, was presented with a beautiful solid silver tea set.
Mark L. Goodwin, son of J. West Goodwin of this city, is reporting the constitutional convention at Oklahoma City for the Dallas News and the Galveston News.
ty Edwards; song leader, Lucia Lee Brosing.
The meeting will be held on the second Thursday of each month and will be held at the various churches. The pianist at the church where the meeting is held will be the presiding pianist for that meeting.
A large group attended the meeting.
Games were played during the social hour and refreshments were served.

Poverty
"The poor," Christ said, "you shall have with you always." Whatever the dreams of some sociologists, the Christian is aware that poverty will ever be in the world. He does not, therefore, dissipate his energies in hopeless planning to abolish poverty, but devotes himself to works of charity in the name of Christ, who was Himself a Man of poverty.

There are hardened minds that can look on the suffering of the poor and remained unmoved.
They lack pity, the quality which, in God, is above all His work. The normal Christian mind, on the other hand, is not only moved to compassion by the sight of poverty, but regards it as a privilege to bring it relief.

Nor does the charity of the Christian limit itself to the material. There are many kinds of poverty; the poverty of the lonely as well as the hungry; the poverty of the discouraged, of the sighted, of the bereaved.

A poor girl gains riches from the courtesy of some one who is genuine and kind. A man in seemingly endless search of work stores his heart with new courage from an understanding word, a friendly pat on the back. Once the Virgin went with Joseph from inn to inn in search of shelter. Their faces showed the strain of constant rebuffs. But they were a very happy pair when one kind heart diffidently suggested they might find room in a stable.

There is acute poverty of every description in the world today. But generous Christians everywhere are responding to this need. Like Christ Himself, who not only fed the multitude but healed the bruised hearts and bodies of His followers, they are showing that pity which is the bond of fellowship between the suffering and those who have the privilege of acting in Christ's place.

The Good Shepherd
Scripture: John 10
By William E. Girloy, D.D.

If public opinion poll should ask what passage in the Old Testament is considered the most outstanding, a great majority of those questioned probably would name the 23rd Psalm — "The Shepherd Psalm."

That Psalm with its imagery of the Lord as Shepherd, leading His own, feeding them, comforting them, surrounding their lives with goodness and mercy, and accompanying them even through the dark valley of death, has been written into the world's life and literature. It presents an ideal of rich, joyful and beautiful living; and it is a message of death, a part of almost every funeral ritual.

The words of Jesus concerning Himself as the Good Shepherd must be read, as they were originally heard, in relation to that Psalm. It was familiar to everyone who heard the Saviour speak.

His listeners understood that the Master was identifying Himself with the Lord of that Shepherd Psalm and His words intensified the strife and division concerning Him, some accepting His love and lordship, others saying,
"He hath a devil."

Can a devil, believers asked,
open the eyes of the blind?
"These are not the words of him that hath a devil."

Did believers or unbelievers notice that Jesus had added something not in the Psalm? It

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"MIND" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 23, 1947.

Golden Text: Romans 11:33.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Rejoice in the Lord always: and again I say, Rejoice. And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus." (Philippians 4:4, 7). The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Heaven is not a locality, but a divine state of Mind in which all the manifestations of Mind are harmonious and immortal, because sin is not there and man is found having no righteousness of his own, but in possession of 'the mind of the Lord,' as the Scripture says." (p. 291).

At the peak of World War II spending, the U. S. government was disbursing $200,000 a minute.

About one out of five full-time

Love Has Two Faces

NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Parker gets a job with the Cavendish Chemical Company and immediately arranges to have the farmhouse modernized. But he can't get along with Carter Cavendish and quits. He tells Cassie he has something else lined up at the Fair store.

XVIII

It was hot for May and little Ellen was cross. Cassie and Mama had been trying to do the spring cleaning.

"For Pete's sake, Cassie!" Parker said, coming home to find her with her head tied up in a white cloth and her hands immersed in a bucket of suds in the hall. "Why can't you hire a woman to come in and do all that heavy work—like scrubbing!"

"But Parker—I don't mind!" "But I do! Do you think I like to come home to find my wife crawling around on the floor like a charwoman?"

"It's so hard to get someone, and it's terrible the prices they charge when you do get someone!"

"We can surely afford something like that!" he said. He strode off toward the kitchen. And she heard him arguing with Mama about it.

She knew Parker hated to see her doing those things. But they had to be done, and Mama wasn't much help. It was easier to do things oneself than to have to keep prodding her.

The plumbing bills for the two new bathrooms and the fine new electric range in the kitchen had used up all the reserve in the bank. But it seemed beyond Parker's comprehension that you couldn't spend money if you didn't have it. He couldn't somehow realize that their financial resources were now practically nothing.

One thing, the allowance to Sid wouldn't have to be paid out after this month because Sid was coming home.

PARKER, Cassie soon realized, was not satisfied with the job at the Fair store either. The first few days he had talked of it with a great show of enthusiasm, but after a while they heard nothing more about it.

To Cassie's casual inquiries as to how it was coming his answers, abrupt and noncommittal, had been tinged with resentment.

The farm was beautiful now. The big maple outside the kitchen door was leafed, and farther away, past the barn and bird-dog kennels, remains of a small orchard of apple and plum trees were in full blossom.

Parker, taking the dogs for a run one Sunday morning, asked Cassie to go with him along the river.

The sandy loam along the river banks was thick with violets and spring beauties, and on the hill-sides redbud and white dogwood mingled in lovely profusion.

The dogs ran ahead of them, wild with freedom, chasing over driftwood piles and through the underbrush.

Parker in old corduroys, with a worn suede jacket, hatless, his fine brown hair tossed by the wind, had a more cheerful expression on his face than Cassie had seen there for a long time.

Cassie felt happy too. The air was good and fresh and clear. They stood still for an instant by the bend in the river, watching the muddy water swirl around a log that had floated down with the early spring flood and was caught half against the bank.

"You know, Parker," Cassie said thoughtfully, "if you're not satisfied with this job either, maybe we could make something of the farm."

"Who said I wasn't satisfied?" Why must he always look at her in that distrustful way?

"I meant—if it wasn't exactly to your liking, I thought you might like farming better. There's that old orchard, that could be fixed up, with pruning and a few new trees, and spray and stuff. And we could have some cows, and get a little garden. Maybe you could raise some dogs, or even have a commercial kennel. And—"

SHE was frightened at the expression on his face. He kicked at a stump and was silent for a moment.

"So you think I'll get kicked out at the Fair store, too? Well, I wouldn't be surprised, either. You don't think much of me without my money, do you, Cassie? I'm not much good without the push to back me, am I?"

"I didn't mean—"

"So if worst comes to worst we can eke out an existence here on the farm, raising pigs and cows. Maybe we could even go back to Carson Street!"

"Oh Parker!" Her heart went down like a runaway elevator. "I didn't mean it the way you took it. I meant that it's a wonderful place to be on the farm here. You said you used to spend a lot of time out here, when your father was alive. I remember—"

"Yeah, it was fine, when father was alive to handle the money and see that more kept coming in all the time. I did a good job of loafing around out here, fishing and running the dogs. Now you want to make a farmer out of me, on the strength of it, so we won't starve to death!"

"Oh what's the matter, Parker? The money didn't mean anything to me really. I mean—nothing should be any different between us—money or not."

"So it didn't mean much to you?" he asked, his voice threaded with mockery. "That was the only reason you married me, wasn't it?"

"Parker, don't say such things to me." Her throat felt hot and dry and yet she had a shaken chill feeling all over.

"Too bad you didn't go ahead and marry Mike Cargill, the way things turned out after all, isn't it?"

"Please, let's not quarrel. You're so childish, Parker."

He strode off suddenly, back toward the house, leaving her standing there alone.

Needs For An Enduring Peace

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 21—(P)—Good housing, educational and recreational opportunities for all and enforcement of laws without racial discrimination are necessary to the attainment of enduring peace, John G. Winant, former United States ambassador to Great Britain, said Thursday.

Speaking before a luncheon meeting of the national conference of Christians and Jews, Winant, who is national chairman for Brotherhood week, declared that family life must be made secure and protected from disruptive influences of insecurity and fear. "Building brotherhood means we must have a social and economic system which makes available to everyone the satisfaction of fundamental needs. "Management, labor and government must cooperate to see that there are decent jobs and a fair living standard for all people," he said.

Intends to Stay To Finish Job

Reed and eight companions arrived en route home after a tour of the Pacific which took them to Japan, Korea, China and the Philippines.

"MacArthur said he would remain in Japan until the job is finished," Reed told newsmen.

"He gave no indication that he planned to return home before then."

"Some officers at MacArthur's headquarters estimated it would take 10 years to complete the American occupation program."

MAKES COFFEE TASTE MUCH BETTER!
Does away with flavor-robbing, messy filter cloths and metal parts. Filters coffee through coffee! That's why coffee made with the Cory Glass Filter Rod is so much fuller-bodied, richer tasting. Much more convenient, too. Just rinse off and it's clean. An exclusive feature of the famous Cory Glass Coffee-Brewer—but fits all standard glass coffee makers.
